Overview

Alex has developed a broad practice, extending across all of Chambers' core practice areas, with a particular focus on shipping, general commercial litigation, international arbitration, the conflict of laws and public international law. He enjoys working as sole counsel or as part of a team.

He has experience of interim and procedural applications made before the courts and in arbitration. Recently, he was instructed by the claimant/applicant in the Renaissance v Chlodwig litigation, where the Commercial Court granted an anti-suit and anti-anti-suit injunction to enforce a London arbitration agreement, restraining foreign proceedings which would have enabled the circumvention of the sanctions regime.

Alex regularly acts in a range of shipping disputes and has been instructed in a number of LMAA arbitrations. He has undertaken a secondment at a city firm, specialising in contentious shipping work, where he spent five weeks advising on claims arising under time charterparties, voyage charterparties and bills of lading.

He has experience advising on jurisdiction and applicable law in a variety of different contexts. To complement his international practice, Alex is also qualified as an advocate in Cyprus, passing the Cyprus Bar Exams with distinction, and has advised on questions of Cypriot law.

Before joining Chambers, Alex undertook a Blue Book Traineeship at the Contract Law Unit of the DG for Justice and Consumers (European Commission). He contributed to the unit's work in developing policies to remove private law obstacles for the use of
